

JIM & MISSY TOLLAR

The Gospel of the Grace of God is moving forward in Kenya, and the eastern coastline is the next stop. Jim and Missy Tollar desire to bring this good news to an area where it has not been previously proclaimed.

This story goes all the way back to the early 1990's when Missy, then just out of high school, went on her first mission trip to Australia for three months. It was at this point the Lord began to lay on her heart the thought of going into full-time mission work.

In January of 2007 Jim was challenged by Ben Anderson, director of Things To Come Mission, to take a two week mission trip to Kenya. At this time, Jim had plans of going into full-time ministry work as he was a student at Berean Bible Institute in Slinger, Wisconsin, but was not yet sure what direction God may be leading him. The Lord began to lay on his heart the possibility of serving Him in Kenya. After returning home, along with much prayer and discussion with Missy, the decision was made to serve the Lord full-time in Kenya at some point in the future.

One question remained, how long would they wait before they answered the call? Their original plan was to wait a few years, until their children were older and no longer in school, or wait until the "time is right."

When is the time right? The right time to act is when the Lord has laid a ministry on your heart. Not to wait many years or keep putting it off, but to walk by faith and follow the Lord's leading as He opens doors along the way. This is exactly what Jim and Missy have done.

Both of them had an opportunity to go and visit Kenya this past summer (2009) and the Lord reaffirmed their calling to this country. The need there is great. The Gospel of the Grace of God has not reached the Kenyan coast, an area 50% Muslim. Jim and Missy desire to team with Peter and Margaret Kagwi and Gardner and Ledith Improso to bring the gospel to this region.

Much preparation remains, however. In September 2009, Jim and Missy will begin visiting churches and conferences to share their ministry and raise support. The "Tollar Family Adventure" has begun. There is a lot of truth in this saying as serving the Lord is the greatest adventure possible. Please partner with them in prayer as they look to serve the Lord in the regions beyond.

THINGS TO COME
MISSION

PO Box 127 • Beech Grove, IN 46107 • (317) 783-0300